How I Won And How I Lost—Told By Dempsey and Carpentier

Dempsey says, Nuxated Iron used by him as part of his training was in his opinion an important factor of his phenomenal victory over Carpentier as he believes it materially helped to give him that mighty power to withstand Carpentier's hardest hits and that it also helped to put added punch behind his own blows.

In the great fight Carpentier hit Dempsey with swift powerful blows that had the speed of gun fire. The yelling mob saw him land his famous right on Dempsey's jaw, yet Dempsey never flinched but relentlessly he tore after the Frenchman with his old right ping tearing, merciless power, landing terrific punches on head, body and jaw until Carpentier quickly weakened and then another powerful punch and again Dempsey should not be superman of the another powerful punch and again Dempsey should not be superman of the acceptance of the superman of the continuous powerful man it have ever met in the ring. He is incredibly strong. To hit him is like hitting the wallop of an avalanche. If I were asked what lead to my defeat, I would say the two tremendous blows Dempsey landed on the map of my neck. I was not the same after that."

Dempsey, says, "I feel I won through greater power, endurance, fighting skill and strategy. I took Carpentier's hardest blows on my chin and while they knecked me back they dien to date me in the least. I am sure Carpentier has not the endurance to stand the hard blows that I can stand, neither has be the strength to deliver them. I understand his methods of training are enlirely different from mine. While I believe in ecientific bothing of the mark ho has the greatest strength, power and endurance that is going to win. In building up these three most important things there is nothing like filling your blood with good old strength giving iron. In preparing for my great fight with Willard I used Nuzzked Iron as part of my training, and felt that it was such benefit to me that after wards I used it, whenever I felt I was not quite up to the mark, to help restore my strength, energy and vigor; and when I used it, whenever I felt I was not quite the propose of carriching or said to the first of the more than a fert was a summan of Jack Kearns, Dempsey's Mana-ger, says: "Knowing what Nux-ated Iron had done for Dempsey ated Iron had done for Dempsey in the Willard fight I strongly insisted that he use this wonderful strength and blood builder as a part of his training for the fight with Carpentier, and I believe it was an important factor in building up Dempsey's superhuman strength, power and endurance which were such important factors in winning his easy victory. tors in winning his easy victory.

Her two ambitions are to complete a college course, and to help other handcapped children.

To Gov. Everett J. Lake, Capitol Building.
Hartford, Conn.
Dear Governor Lake:
I received your recent letter in which you state that you were compelled to veto House Bill 701-4. An Act to Provide Transportation for Crippled Children to and from School.
I am grieved and shocked at your action and at the reason you give when you say "While there are many places where the application of this law would have been advantageous the total amount involved is much larger than the present financial condition of the state could stand."

Permit me to remind you of the long and almost inhuman neglect by the state of its lame children. All normal children and all randcapped rhildren are freely provided with the opportunity for education except he lame. The state is ready to spend from $400 to $600 per year an any blind or deaf child to provide him with adequate training to succeed in life. The delinquent and the feeble minded are provided for. Only the lame child is permitted and often sompelled to grow up in ignorance.

The received ynour leads to complete a college course, and soften seed that two present in its report to concerning lame children. It is only because few know and fewer care that I. a lame spil, have to make this protest instead of some influential citizen.

I do not wish to seem harsh but I am trying to voice the cry, the exceedingly bitter cry, of the lame to ask some very plain questions.

You see dear Governor, it in the habit of this State to re-elect its Governors. This whole weary business of getting a bill drafted and passed by another Legislature must be all done over again. We do not want to have it count for nothing a second time, because of your veto, so please tell us what you are willing that the State should do for its lame children are freely provided with the opportunity for education ex

In The Theatres

Many a parental heart beat faster at the Empire theatre last night.

Many a youngster snuggled close to the arm of father or mother and was thankful for a good home and doting loved onse; and many a pair of sweethearts, smarting under some fancied grievance of misunderstanding, made up their minds to forget their differences and begin anew.

Such was the effect of "The Big Adventure," the story of childhood, which had its first showing here and which served to bring back that wonder-kiddie of the films, "Breezy" Eason, in the title role.

The story was written especially for "Breezy" by James Edward Hungerford. It shows the transition of an abused street waif from the slums of the city to the open country.

In addition to "Breezy," important roles are played by Lee Shumway as the lawyer, Gertrude Olmstead as his sweetheart, Fred Herzog as the father and Mollie Shafer as the aunt. at the Empire theatre last night at Poll's a show filled with unusual entertainment qualities.

Tomorrow, Claire Whitney, the beautiful motion picture star, comes to Poll's in person in suport of Robert Emmett Keane, the Broadway comedian. They will appear in "The Gossipy Sex," a minuature play ideally suited to Miss Whitney's histrionic abilities. Claire Whitney' is a well-beloved screen actress. Her partner, Robert Emmett Keane, is one of the most poular and versatile actors along Broadway. Their offering, "The Gossipy Sex," is a comedy leaf from the book of the celebrated Mrs. Grundy and shows to what lengths the wagging tongue of women can go. "The Gossipy Sex" will be a bigger hit than was the playlet offered by Carlyle Biackwell during his recent engagement at Polo's.

The vaudevile bill supperting Claire Whitney and Robert Emfaett Keane is pure variety. Sandy Shaw, the Sootch comedian, is a Bridgeport favorite. Billy "Swede" Hall and his clever company will offer "Hilda" just like his famous father amused with "Ole Olsen." Barton & Hall in a singing and talking act and Herbert & Dare in an acrobatic novelty will complete the bill.

YOUNG man in London succeeded in getting a letter to Baron Rothschild.

The great banker listened to the proposition and nodded approval.

"Meet me tomorrow at --- o'clock precisely on the steps of the Bank."

Of course the appointment was kept. Baron Rothschild greeted the young man cordially, speaking a few casual words with cheerful earnestness. Then he said "Good-by." -

"B-b-but I had hoped-" stammered the young man.

"-That I would make your enterprise successful. I have already done so!" With this the financier walked away, leaving the other disappointed, crest-fallen.

But not for long. Within a few minutes he was surrounded by men eager to cultivate one on such intimate terms with Baron Rothschild. It was taken for granted that the Rothschilds were behind his business enterprise.

Association with a good bank gives the depositor in the bank the benefit of the standing, the prestige of the bank in the community.

This is one reason why The First National has built up a deserved reputation for usefulness, for friendliness, as well as courtesy-a reputation created on the experience of its depositors.
